Quotes

Our current rate of expansion is propelling our organization to new heights largely thanks to the team members we have in place and those we've recently added. At this rate, I have no doubt that we'll exceed our hiring goals in 2017. Most importantly, we've positioned ourselves to successfully grow our team without sacrificing the high level of service we've become known for throughout the industry. – Joe Nattans, President

Our goal is to strive towards the highest level of customer experience imaginable. As the industry continues to evolve, the challenges of this goal in typical mortgage companies tends to strain or fade away. However, what we have discovered at GMH is quite extraordinary. Here the desire to be great, to work as “one” in every department - regardless of title, task or geographical footprint - is precisely why we now call GMH our home. – Ted Lawler, SVP Retail Sales

GMH is far different from other mortgage companies. From our first meetings through today, the culture and friendly atmosphere is not only evident but clearly superior to that of other organizations. Most importantly, each day GMH continues to deliver on its promises. It's refreshing to experience a company culture that is genuine and not just rhetoric. – John Crits, Branch Manager

We had heard of the unparalleled mortgage experience and service GMH provided before joining the team. The first-hand experience we've had here has far exceeded our expectations. Knowing that we have an expert team behind us has allowed us to focus on growing our business, and we're already seeing the results after a few short months. – Scott Sciarra, Branch Manager
